DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Masterson et al. (US 6,732,076; hereinafter Masterson).

Masterson discloses a computerized method of teaching spoken language skills including the steps of receiving multiple user utterances into a computer system; receiving criteria for pronunciation errors; analyzing the user utterances to detect pronunciation errors according to basic sound units and pronunciation error criteria; providing feedback to the user in accordance with the analysis; determining if the user utterance is a grossly different utterance than the desired utterance; a computer processor that produces application prompts for an audio playback interface, receiving multiple user utterances from an audio input device, receives criteria for pronunciation errors, analyzes the user utterances to detect pronunciation errors according to basic sound units and pronunciation error criteria, and provides feedback to the user on a visual display that shows application screens produced by the computer processor in accordance with the analysis. See abstract and Col. 1, line 61 – Col. 2, line 65.
